GLADSTONE PORTS CORPORATION

About us

GLADSTONE PORTS CORPORATION LIMITED

Gladstone Ports Corporation Limited (GPC) is a Government Owned Corporation (GOC) responsible for facilitating the import of raw material and the export of finished product associated with major industries in the Central Queensland region. GPC manages and operates three port precincts in Gladstone, Rockhampton and Bundaberg, with several terminals located within the Port of Gladstone.

The Port of Gladstone formally commenced in 1914 as the Gladstone Harbour Board, and the Rockhampton and Bundaberg Harbour Boards commenced operations in 1896. All three boards were renamed Port Authorities in 1987. The Rockhampton and Bundaberg ports merged with the Port of Gladstone in 2004 and 2009 respectively.

Our core business functions are to manage port infrastructure and cargo handling operations for the ports; provide and maintain vital shipping channels; and to develop, manage and lease Strategic Port Land (SPL). Other responsibilities include road infrastructure, pilotage services, towage services (through an exclusive licence), property services, community parklands, and quarantine and waste disposal services.

The Port of Gladstone is one of Queensland's largest multi-commodity ports and boasts the world's fifth largest coal export terminal, RG Tanna Coal Terminal, (by throughput). Cumulatively, our ports handle the export of mineral resources mined from Central Queensland, products (such as sugar, grain and tallow) from local industries, and the import of raw materials from national and international sources.

Our people are the key to our success. GPC has been a vital part of the Central Queensland community for over a century and currently employs over 750 people. We are committed to keeping our people safe; building an adaptable and capable workforce; and achieving high performance outcomes required for continued and sustainable growth.

Once you have submitted your application you will receive a confirmation email.

Our recruitment process

The recruitment process will help you understand the steps GPC follows when recruiting for a position. From the applications received, a shortlist is developed and these candidates are typically interviewed by a recruitment selection panel. The aim is to select the candidate whose skills, knowledge, personal qualities and experience best match the position requirements, as defined by the key selection criteria.

SHORTLISTING

Your application is assessed using a shortlisting process, where your information along with other applications is reviewed by the selection panel and assessed against the required key selection criteria. The most suitable candidates; as determined by the selection panel, are then shortlisted and these candidates will be invited to participate in further selection processes.

If an applicant does not meet a criterion that is essential to satisfy a legal, registration and/or accreditation purpose, or requirement of a professional body, they will be excluded from further consideration because of ineligibility for appointment to the position.

Candidates will not be eliminated from consideration, on any basis, not directly related to the requirements of the position.

ASSESSMENT

As part of the selection process you may be required to undertake some form of assessment/testing to assess your suitability for the position. This testing may include psychometric assessments, ability testing or work testing (e.g. machinery testing). Assessments are selected specific to the requirements of the role.

INTERVIEWS

The interview enables the selection panel to assess your suitability for the position. It will enable you to clarify your understanding of the position through a series of specific questions derived from the key selection criteria and further expand on the information provided in your application.

The interview is also an opportunity for you to ask questions to decide whether GPC and the position you are applying for are appropriate for you. The information gathered in the interview process will complement the information obtained in the other selection processes.

Tips to prepare you for your interview:

- Familiarise yourself with the position description as it outlines the duties, responsibilities and previous experience or education required for the position. Along with relevant specific role key selection criteria, the position description also contains other key selection criteria that will be evaluated at interview. Consider how you meet the job criteria and prepare examples to support your application
- The interview will include questions that are phrased in a way to encourage you to provide real life examples and previous experience, e.g. a question could be, 'Can you provide us with an example that demonstrates where you have adapted to changing practice or conditions. What part did you play?'

REFERENCE CHECKS

As part of your application you will be asked to provide two recent work-related referees; preferably direct supervisors and/or managers who can comment directly on your abilities in a work situation. The best referee is one that can provide evidence of your previous work experience that aligns with the key selection criteria.

PRE-EMPLOYMENT MEDICAL

If you are selected as a preferred applicant, following the interview process, you will be required to undergo a medical examination appropriate to the position requirements. This medical will be performed by a medical practitioner appointed by GPC and will include drug and alcohol testing. The examination will be at GPC's cost.

APPLICATION FEEDBACK

Due to the large number of applications received by GPC it is not possible to provide feedback to all applicants. Feedback is only generally available to applicants that are progressed through the recruitment and selection process to interview. Feedback may only be given once a candidate has been appointed to the position and the recruitment process for that role has concluded. Please contact GPC's Careers Team via email careers@gpcl.com.au to submit a feedback request.

INDUCTION

Should you be successful in gaining employment with GPC, you will be required to undergo an employee induction program. Our induction program begins on your first day where you are required to complete induction modules to gain your identity card and receive site-specific training.
